How is a builder using our product to solve a building challenge: Pre-Finished Frames

Maintenance-free, weather-resistant Pre-Finished Frame Systems from Endura will further help to prevent builder liability

“It’s Not A Door Without Endura” illustrates Endura Products’ message that we listen to, and are familiar with, real-world problems that builders often run in to. Endura’s Pre-Finished Exterior Frame System is not only attractive and functional, but cost effective as well. It was engineered from the builders and homeowners demands to improve the structural integrity of door units, add convenient features for door installation and protect door units and homes from the harshest weather, assisting the builder in liability prevention. Pre-Finished PVC frames provide a rot free exterior with integral brickmould for a seamless appearance.

Known among builders and pre-hangers for its extensive testing and research to solve real-world door construction and performance problems, Endura based the Pre-Finished Frame System around a layered system of defense against weather infiltration and damage.

The frame exterior is constructed of maintenance-free and weather-resistant PVC, a stark contrast to frames that need exterior painting and replacement due to water damage and rot. Installation has been simplified with a snap-in nailing fin and available integral brick mould. Efficiency is further maintained as the assembly required is reduced to screwing together the unit in the pre-drilled holes that Endura has incorporated.

Built into the frame are mitered corners for jambs and headers, and hinge, strike and deadbolt prep details—all of which save labor and lead to installation success on the jobsite.

The interior portion of the frame is made of wood that can be delivered finger-jointed and primed, finger-jointed and non-primed, clear or pre-finished—giving the builder a variety of options.

The frame can be ordered for inswing and outswing applications, in two sizes and for a variety of mull styles. Frame and mull covers can be provided to protect the frame system from jobsite damage and reduce clean-up costs.

Endura does more than supply door components. Endura is committed to getting dirty in the field in order to develop simple and practical solutions to your real-world problems. “It’s Not A Door Without Endura” signifies that Endura is ready to make your first day, and your last worry free.
