IT'S HOW DOORS WORK.™

ENDURA PRODUCTS TO DISTRIBUTE THE INNOVATIVE SURESILL™ SLOPED SILLPAN FOR DOORS AND WINDOWS

GREENSBORO, NC – December 3, 2004 – Are you tired of improperly installed door units causing leaks and damage to the interior of the home? The new, innovative SureSill™ sill pan distributed by Endura Products, Inc. virtually eliminates this common issue on exterior door installations, limiting builder liability across the board.

The SureSill™ Sloped Sill Pan, manufactured by SureSill, Ltd., is a new and innovative approach to the increasingly demanded sill pan. SureSill™ pans address all shortcomings of sill pans currently on the market. It is more cost effective than self fabricated designs commonly used by many builders, and actually functions to drain water effectively with a unique built in channel. Inferior products previously offered may have had you wondering—just where does the water go? SureSill™ offers a patent pending sloped design, combined with integral drain channels to ensure that any moisture in the pan is directed to the exterior of the house.

The SureSill™ pan, available in 4 9/16” and 6 9/16” widths, is a unique easy to use 3-part design, comprised of a channel plate (pan) and end caps, and fits any door or window opening. The SureSill™ Lock-in Channel Plate can be cut to the exact measurement of any window or door opening on site by the installer. The plate is joined with a pair of Lock-in Corners through a keyed profile and secured with an approved bonding sealant, creating a sloped and drainable, waterproof sill pan. The innovative 3-piece design fits every opening, every time, no need for special orders for different sized entry ways.

“Endura is uniquely focused on the entire entry door system lifecycle,” said Tessa Rodriguez, Marketing Manager for Endura. “Endura helps prehangars, builders and their customers avoid common obstacles to help ensure successful building and remodeling projects—eliminating callbacks for repair and unplanned product replacement, and customer-service problems. “
